'Go, Howe' golden words

During a football game you hear, at least 10 times, "Go, Hornets." Every week for 50 years those two words have echoed through the halls of Howe—if not expressed for the football team then the basketball team, or another sport or organization associated with the school. "Go, Hornets" are the most golden words here. These two words add a touch of gold to the life of an athlete, an active teacher, or a student striving to make a difference at Howe.

Right: Generations of fans have cheered the Hornets on for 50 years.

Fifty years filled with changes

Thomas Carr Howe High School opened its doors in September 1938 with 433 students and a staff of 16 teachers. The school celebrates its birthday on May 28, the day ground was broken for the new school in 1937. The school is named for Thomas Carr Howe, a former president of Butler University who lived on North Audubon Road. His former home is now a part of the Irvington Methodist Church.

The original blueprints called the school Irvington High School even though the western boundary of Irvington was Emerson Avenue. Irvington had been annexed to Indianapolis in 1902, with the promise that a high school would be built to serve the community. The town had had a school, but it had been destroyed by fire in the 1890's. Through the first part of the twentieth century students from the area attended Shortridge, Manual, or Tech. In 1930 the school board purchased the original 10.9 acre site which was known in the community as Violet Hill because of the many wild flowers growing between Pleasant Run and the Conrail tracks. Other areas considered for the school had been the southeast corner of Washington Street and Audubon Road and the old Butler University campus at Butler and University.

Mrs. Louis Bruck, a former president of the Irvington Union of Clubs and a school board member, was instrumental in convincing the school board to approve building the school. She was given the honor of turning the first spade of earth at the ground breaking in May 1937. Also present were students from schools 57, 58, 62, 78, 82, and 85--schools which would provide Howe's first students. The cornerstone, located on the east side of the Tower entrance, was laid in November 1937 and contains the names of the first students; an American Flag; copies of the three Indianapolis daily newspapers, the News, the Star, and Times; a coin; and a Bible.

Charles M. Sharp, the first principal, served the school from its opening until his retirement in 1959. He was succeeded by Thomas Stirling, who retired in 1972. Frank Tout has been principal since that time.

There have been four additions to the original building. In 1940 a cafeteria-gymnasium unit was added to replace the outgrown gymnasium—now rooms 227 and 229—and the overcrowded cafeteria—now the Distributive Education area, room 127. The east classroom wing was added in 1954, and the auditorium-cafeteria wing was opened in 1963. The stadium was completed in 1966, with classrooms added in 1969. The newest addition, finished 1975, included a new media center, a new gymnasium, new career education laboratories and new offices. Howe presently is located on a plot of ground totaling 31.35 acres. Extensive remodeling within the present building has also been completed. More than 17,000 students have been graduated from Howe since the first graduation exercises in 1941.

Upper left: The day each Howe student works for is graduation. The tradition of graduating on the Hill has changed but the goal of graduating hasn't. Upper right: In the beginning Howe was considerably smaller in size but not in spirit.

Right: Standing tall and proud, Howe extends its opportunities to students in athletics, music, and academics.

New events mark homecoming

On Saturday September 26, 1987, at Kelley Stadium Howe's homecoming celebration was held. Many activities for this year's fiftieth anniversary were set for the day. First there was a soccer game at 10:00 a.m., then the annual parade at 1:00 p.m., the football game at 3:00 p.m. and the dance in the North Gym at 7:00 p.m.

While activities were beginning and ending, many groups sold items for spectators to fill excess time and raise money. Some of the groups were Media Club, Student Council, Home Economics, Tisdale Team, Hilltopper, and others.

For the first time a soccer game was played during homecoming. The team lost 4-1 to the Brebeuf Braves.

Afterwards the annual homecoming parade started at Ellenberger Park and marched to Howe. The band led plaining the "Howe Loyalty" with the king and queen candidates, class floats, and other enthusiastic Howefans who drove their cars to cheer on Howe's homecoming.

The football team also hosted Brebeuf. By half-time the Hornets were ahead 33-0. During halftime the marching band performed and princial Frank Tout and Student Council vice-president Tracy Denton crowned senior Jill Frederickson the homecoming queen with junior Traci Collins first runner-up. The floats were also judged with the seniors' float "Bomb the Braves" winning first place and the juniors' float "T.P. (toilet paper) the Braves taking second.

Another highlight during halftime was a tribute to retired athletic director Samuel T. Kelley, who was the school's first football coach. Howe's stadium is named after Mr. Kelley. Because of his work and dedication the football team felt they should honor him by giving him a special football to show their appreaiation.

Band adds color to games

The performances and achievements of small groups and activities such as the marching band add the touch of gold that impresses spectators with their efforts and deeds.

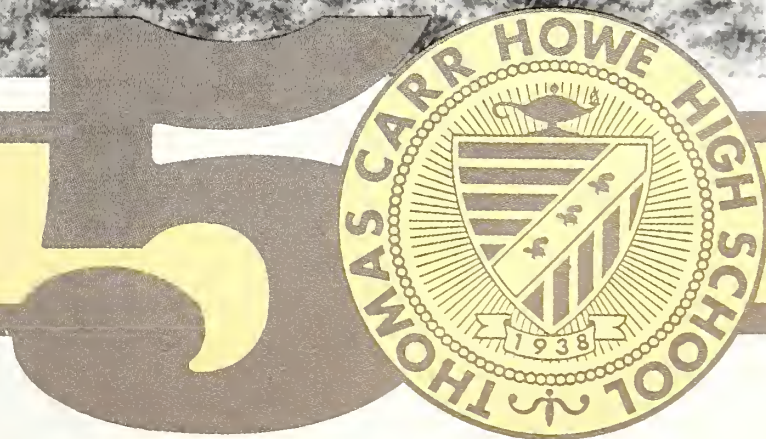

Howe's marching band led by second-year drum major David Adams and band director Keith White, showed dedication, ability, and pride when they marched for football games and numerous parades. With fewer members the band proved that great things don't always come in big packages.

Flag Bearers add color and excitement to the music of the marching band. Seniors Leandra Brattain and Lori Marshall close out four years with the group.

Students comment on classes

Hilltopper staff members asked students to comment on the most interesting, unusual, or exciting activities and events in their classes. Selected comments are reprinted below:

DE Related (Mrs. Bareford) The most interesting time is when (on Mondays) we have to tell about something that has happened on our jobs. Sometimes we get into big arguments about how the situation should have been handled, but sometimes we help one another out in solving different problems. (Diana Walters)

Stage Design (Mr. Lynch) The unique way we build, paint, and destroy props and the way we get back at some of the actors and actresses. Also the trust that Mr. Lynch puts into us. (Jason Zaphiriou)

Chemistry (Mrs. Keaton) One day in chemistry we were doing an experiment involving heating magnesium. First, my teacher demonstrated the different reactions we were to expect when two different elements were combined or if an element was burned. Well, she took a piece of magnesium and heated it. All of a sudden a bright light was lit. It was somewhat brighter than a light bulb. I found this very interesting and exciting because the magnesium was just so bright. When we did our own experiment the same thing happened except this time I was a little more nervous because we were doing it ourselves. Otherwise, I thought the reaction was very interesting. (Roselyn DeCastro)

Algebra 3 & 4 (Mr. Walter) Mr. Walter played this rap tape that he had made awhile back in my algebra class one day when we were testing. The rap song was about learning. Everyone in the class listened to the song and enjoyed the words, "You've got to learn something. "The rap song relaxes us and we feel more apt to taking the test. We all would like to listen to this song every time we take a test. It brings motivation. (Melinda Baker)

Government (Mr. Finkbinder) Any government class of Mr. Finkbinder is interesting because he makes learning fun. It is the first class I've had where the review for the test wasn't an hour of staring at a piece of paper, but instead playing Jeopardy. (Russell Lawrence)

Government (Mr. Spears) U. S. government when Mr. Spears tries to tell jokes. (John Edmond)

Biology (Miss Ashcraft, Student Teacher) The most exciting thing that happened this year—so far—was when I was in biology class and Miss Ashcraft, our student teacher, was teaching. We were talking about evolution and creation when all of a sudden the table exploded. It threw sparks everywhere! (Dawn Allen)

Drug Ed (Mr. Arvin) The most interesting class I have is with Mr. Arvin mods 3 and 4. It's drug ed. Everyday I learn something new! Most of the new things I learn influence me and the things I knew are reinforced. If you have an open place for a one-semester course, I advise you to take Mr. Arvin's drug ed class. (Kim Walton)

Math (Mr. Ireland:Ireland, Ronald) Mr. Ireland (head of the math department) just can't seem to hold onto anything. He dropped, and then picked up a piece of paper five times. Then he laughed. (Jason Cox)

Tisdale Team

The efforts of the Tisdale Team have opened the eyes of many Howe students to drug abuse. This year's Tisdale Team has become a part of a nation wide program to stop drug abuse in school. With the help of Pacer Wayman Tisdale, and First Lady, Nancy Reagan, the goal of preventing teen-age abuse has taken a giant step.

One of the major events this year was the visit of First Lady Nancy Reagan. While few students were involved in the actual program, every student was affected in some way.

Mrs. Reagan's visit to Howe was something that only comes once in your life . . . For young kids to see older students and athletes saying "No" makes it much easier for them to say "No." — Tony Dean, Junior.

We (teen) are the future and we can't help the future if we're dead because of drugs. — Crystal Campbell, Junior.

Her remarks made me think about using drugs, but I will never start using drugs and I will encourage my friends that it is not good for you. — Dave Craig, Senior.

I feel that if she traveled all the way here from D.C. to promote the abolition of school-age drug abuse, it must mean she (Nancy Reagan) really cares. — Nicole White, Junior.

Actually, I didn't need the speech because I think drugs aren't necessary. I have a natural high and I don't want a messed up brain. — Stacy Robinson, Senior.

I enjoyed her (Nancy Reagan) remarks and thought they were beneficial to everyone. — Russell Harpold, Junior.

Mrs. Reagan's visit probably influenced the kids who don't use drugs not to start, but the kids who are on drugs probably didn't pay attention to Mrs. Reagan or the Tisdale Team. — Jennifer Fines, Junior.

I suppose I expected Mrs. Reagan to be only sophisticated and aloof. I did not realize that she was a real person as well as the First Lady. — Amy Hornback, Junior.

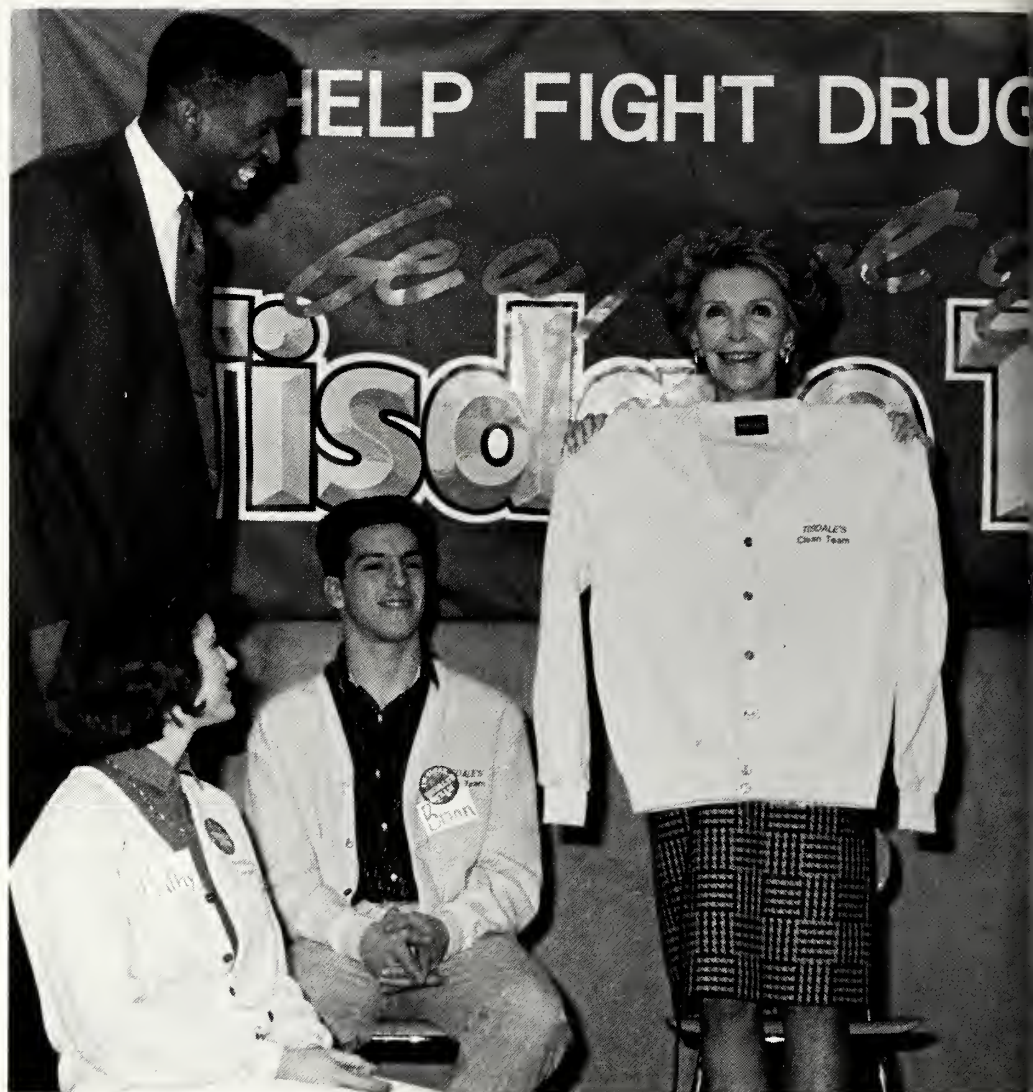

My experience of the Tisdale Team will long be with me. — Brian Clark, Senior.

We put out a positive message that you do not need drugs to succeed. — Kelly Alexiou, Senior.

Naturally the publicity and recognition has been a lot of fun, but the most meaningful experiences come from when we go out and talk face to face to the kids. — Jill Frederickson, Senior.

Music

Department's Hard Work Pays Big Dividends

Being a member of the music department involved different things: working hard, taking criticism, planning, and having lots of fun. This year the music department accomplished all of those things.

With a standing ovation at Pop's Concert, the Varsity Singers started off the year well. This group consisted of twenty-one of the best dancers and singers at Howe. Throughout the year, the Varsity group performed in many places showing their talents. Varsity Singers performed in nursing homes, churches, the Education Center and in the school's music programs. The highlight of the year for the group was receiving a first place at ISSMA State Contest.

It was truly a busy year for all the music groups. Concert Choir, along with the Madrigal Singers, delighted many at Union Station at Christmas time. The Concert Choir received a first place at the ISSMA State Contest and performed for various functions while the Madrigal Singers entertained at feasts.

Howe's Choralaires, directed by Robert Bramblett, also took part in many of the festivities at Howe, including two performances at nursing homes nearby.

Between the Marching Band and Pep Band there have been many performances. The Pep Band played their glorious strains for basketball games throughout the season. The Marching Band performed in two parades, the Veterans' Day parade and the Homecoming parade. The main event of the year for the band was travelling to St. Louis to perform at Six Flags. The band also went to the Midwestern Marching Band Festival. "The band was satisfied with receiving a sixth place overall in the contest," said senior, David Adams. "We did great considering that we only had two weeks of practice and didn't go to band camp."

Most of the work of the music department aims towards the annual spring musical in March.

Howe Students Put on "Emperor's New Clothes"

"The Emperor's New Clothes" was produced by the Howe Music Department this past summer.

The cast consisted of 21 students each doing his or her own part. Joseph Bramblett played the part of the Emperor and Carolyn Jacobs played the Empress. The dashing Prince was played by Guy Booher and the beautiful Princess was played by Kathy Miley. The evil Lord Mal was played by Alan Lough, and was always contradicted by the lovable Lord Old played by Jamaine Walker. Other parts were played by Billy Johnson (Constable), Scott Schoen (Dudley), Melinda Baker (Lady Dorcas), Brian Boyd (Ranger), Melody Lacey (Becky), Rosemary Deal (Vicki), and Clara Winslow (Millie). Also, Anna Thompson was Jane, Larry Knapp as the Sentry, and Keith Trinkles as the Boy. Last, but not least, Teresa Rivers, Michelle Humphries, Eric Berg, Billy Lego, and Carolyn Lewellen, who helped carry the musical along as attendants, servants, paiges, and Ladies and Gentlemen of the Court.

JUNIOR RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

Major Michael Flynn and Sergeant First Class Robert Malone were in charge of the Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corp.

The objectives of the JROTC program were to develop in each Cadet, leadership, citizenship, physical fitness, communication abilities, and knowledge of basic military skills.

The Drill Team and Color Guard were active parts of the JROTC program. The Drill team precision marched and competed with other high school drill teams. The Color Guard presented the colors at school games, meetings, parades, and many city functions.

Some Cadets took advantage of trips and tours to military installations.

A Spring Military Ball gave each cadet the opportunity to wear formal dress and enjoy the Corps socially. The leaders and JROTC staff members worked hard for this successful event.

Debbie Fisher, the Battalion Commander, an outstanding student, symbolized the success of the Howe High School JROTC program.

Roger Porter, as Company Commander, distinguished himself and Howe JROTC. He set an excellent example for all Cadets, with his leadership, appearance and good conduct.

JROTC Cadets and their leaders were proud to be a part of the Thomas Carr Howe curriculum for the school's 1987-88 golden anniversary.

We the Cadets of 1987-88, would like to give special dedication to the memory of our deceased Color Guard and S-5 Commander, Joseph Whittney. He was well liked and highly respected for his tremendous personality and his leadership traits. We wish to offer this tribute to him, one of the finest Cadets we have ever known.

Female Drill Team: Danielle Vertner, Sherri Pierson, Demetria Bray, Sonya Cooper, Leslie Johnson, Larrita Porter, Urlanda Smith, Ladonna Smith, Crystal Martin, Tamica
Vaden, Vera Brown

Second Row: Elvis Jones, Richard Acton, Michael Martin, Ron Jones, Benard Mattingly, Roger Porter

Kneeling: Crystal Martin, Desert Novak, James Wright, Demetria Bray, Bobby Jean Smith, Gale Lewis, Jeff Engle

Keith Knuckles and Sergeant Malone watch Paul Woempner while he ties off the playing court so the fans can walk out and not interfere with the game.

The JROTC program is designed to benefit the cadet. The U.S. Army gets no direct benefit from the program since the cadet does not have to join the army or go into the Senior ROTC program. The nation does benefit from JROTC since the program is designed to make better citizens of the cadets.

A Fresh Start For Tower

The Tower staff began the year with a fresh start, due to the addition of a new advisor, Mrs. Vicki Martich. Her presence was a catalyst for encouraging former Tower staffers to return.

This year was an organizational one for the newspaper students. The advisor began the first meeting by holding an election of editors. Voted into office were Kevin Lackey, editor-in-chief; Rodney Kates, managing editor; Nicole Kearney, opinion editor; Amy Hornback, feature editor; Matt Silvers, business manager; Jenny Wilson, typesetting manager; and Ron Woods, news editor.

The staff concluded that the Tower needed to be more aware of its readership. More emphasis was placed on the events and news of Howe High School. The goals for the staff this year were to produce more quality newspapers for the readership, with less thought to winning awards.

During the semester change, the Tower lost three valuable staff members because of job commitments. Eric Alexander's position as sports editor was taken by William Roberts during the spring semester. Michelle Wilson took over Jenny Wilson's responsibilities as typesetting manager, and Jessica Byrd assumed the role of news editor from Ron Woods.

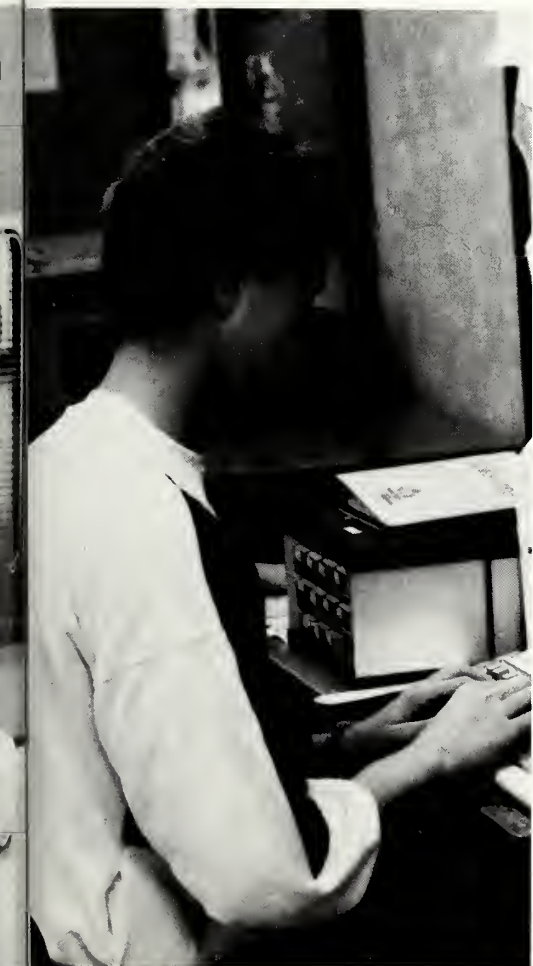

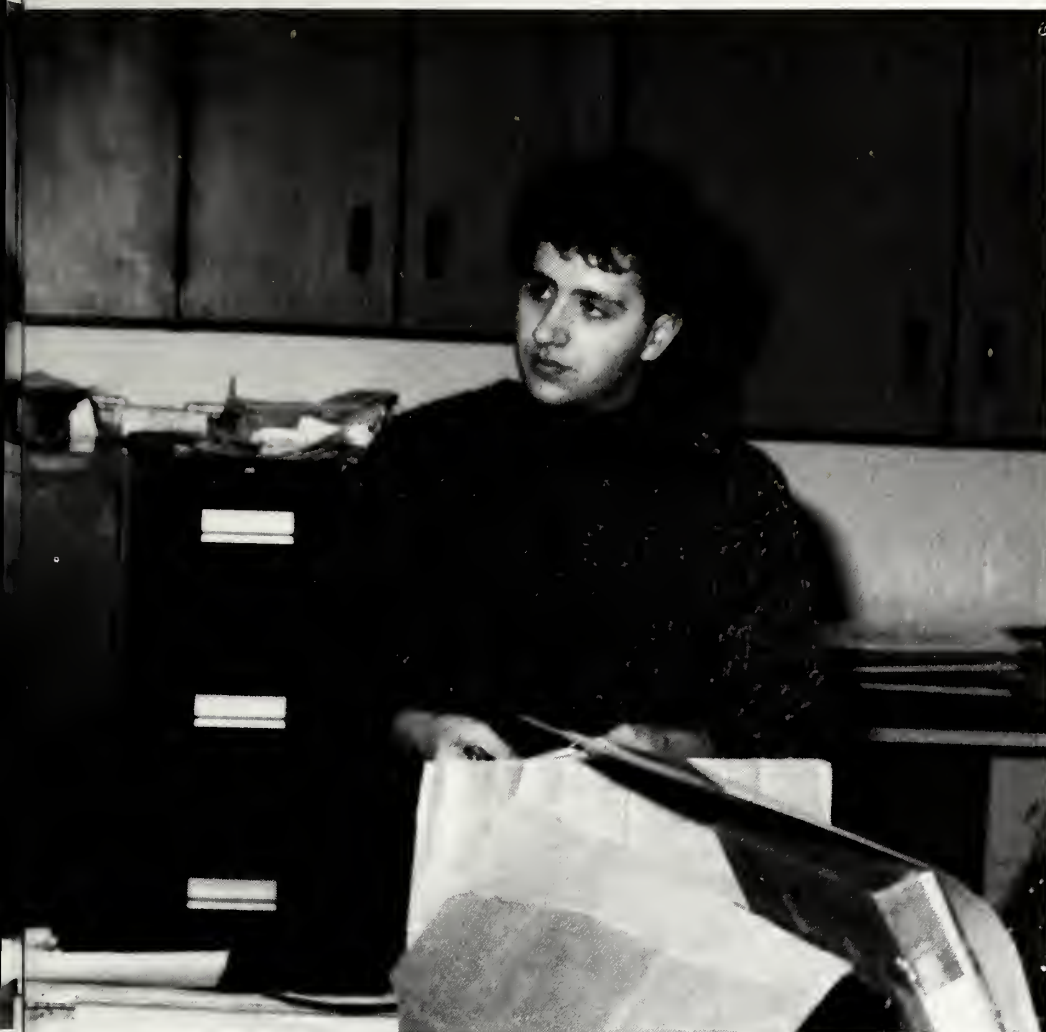

The staff attended an Indiana High School Press Association day at Franklin College in October and participated in J-Day (Journalism Day) at Ball State University in April.

Football Team Makes Impressive Showing And Other Fall Sports Show Strong Efforts

The 50th anniversary of fall sports started off with a "BOOM". Varsity football made it all the way to the last sectional game against Lawrence Central. We were defeated by just one touchdown. The final score was 20-14. Boys' tennis and girls' swimming showed lots of effort and enthusiasm. Each team pulled together to achieve an eventful season. In girls' golf the #1 player was Sherri Oakes who was said to be most promising. Sara Fults held #2 player and Marcie Cravens was #3 player. The boys' tennis team was recruiting and rebuilding during the season. Last, but definitely not least, volleyball was building a strong team with Jackie Payton as their #1 player and Rocky Johnson as the #2 player. Overall, the Howe students should be proud of the efforts made by their teams competing in fall sports.

Spring Sports

Flowers blooming, birds chirping, blue skies clearing, and green grass growing are a few of the wonders of spring time, along with the sounds of "Play Ball."

Besides "American's favorite pastime," boys' track, boys' golf, girls' track, girls' tennis and softball fill out the spring sports schedule at Howe.

Baseball had a struggling season, but the team is building toward a better season next year. Some of the outstanding players for the Hornets were Jerome Davis and Jeff Wessell.

Boys' track team had an exciting season playing many county schools. Aidis Thomas and John McCloud, two freshman runners, won the 400 meter relay in the freshman city championship, John McCloud also won in the 100m and 200m competition. Carlos McGee was a city champion in the long jump. Anthony Wise, Carl Meginity, Kowalski Martin, Rodney Burns, and Anthony Johnson are returning members of the team.

Boys' golf made a good showing this year even though their record was 6-7. The number one player was James Stipanovic, and Jeff Deetor was number two.

Girls' track kept the same outstanding 6-1 record as last year, while the runs for distance improved greatly. Tiffany Archer was the star athlete for girls' track.

Girls' tennis was one of the better teams we had this year. They had a winning season with a record of 10-9. Sarah Foltz was our number one player, Marcie Cravens was number two, and Jill Frederickson was number three.

Even though softball had a record of 3-12, the young ladies tried hard and kept good spirits. Sherri Ochs and Rita Cruz were two of the players who contributed to the effort. As the spring season has ended, we prove to be one of the best city schools.

Fall Sports: Two Views from a Personal Perspective

Win or Lose?

This season, the tennis team was fortunate enough to get to go on a trip to Lafayette for an invitational game. The familiar saying, "Getting there is half the fun," can be applied to this hour-and-a-half excursion. I have no idea what was on the minds of my fellow team members when we arrived, but I was reminded of more of a college-type atmosphere rather than high school when I observed all of the football players, other tennis players and girls. At this point we all got into separate vans and departed for our different destinations. I was having such a good time on this trip that the impending match did not worry me at all. I played my number three singles match to the very best of my ability and was not in the least bit disappointed when I lost the match; I was enjoying myself too much. I think that if I learned anything from this experience, it was that the object of a sport is to play the best you can and to just have fun.

To me, volleyball means a lot of hard work, constant challenges, and fun. As I have played through the years, I've noticed my growing spirit for Howe High School. One of the most important things I learned while playing volleyball was the meaning of teamwork. No one person can do everything; the team is what matters. If everyone does not do his share, the team will lose. It could be just due to one person not fulfilling his obligation to the team.

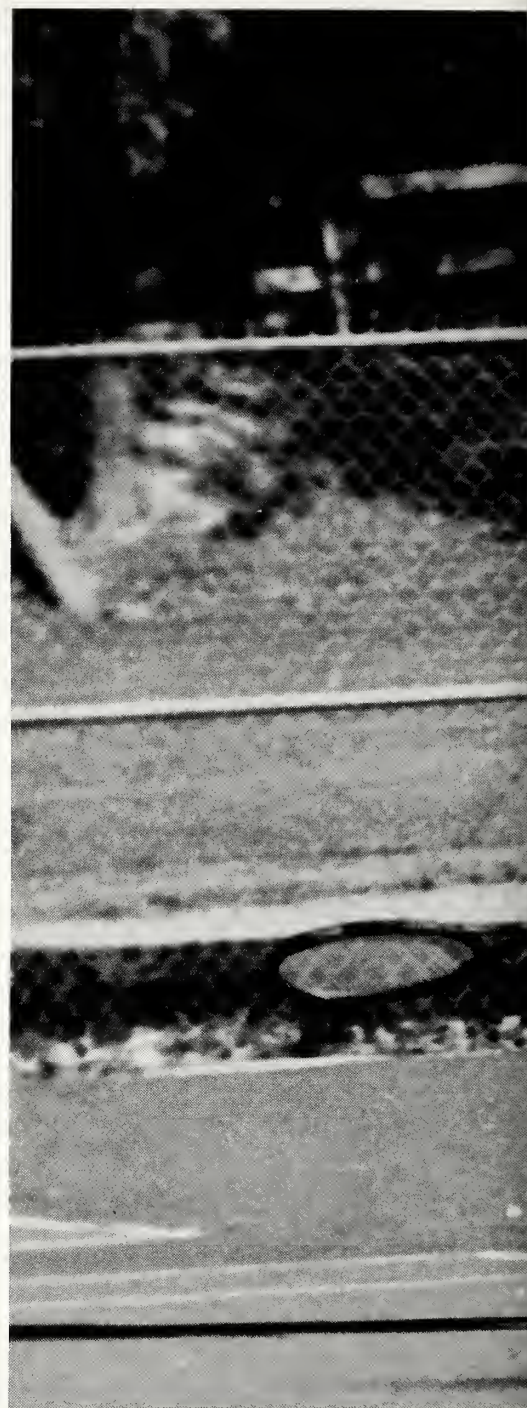

Volleyball, or any sport for that matter, gives a person the challenge to do his best so that the school is represented well. I feel that if you have pride in yourself and your school, anything can be accomplished.

My JV coach, Miss Pervis, may have been hard on our team, but she helped us realize our mistakes and showed us how to improve our game. Joanne, the varsity coach, worked with all of us equally as a team, regardless of our position on either the JV or varsity team. This helped us all learn how to work together and be a unit playing for the glory that we could bring to Howe. The two teams always supported each other. I can remember how the varsity team would cheer us on to victory during our JV games. Their support helped boost our morale and made us play better because we gained more confidence in our ability. Having the varsity team at the games made it much easier to play at an unknown school where most of the spectators would be cheering for the opposing team.

Don't get me wrong — volleyball is not all glory and good times. It is a lot of hard work and discipline, but the fun that I experienced while on the team made up to every bit of energy I expended on the game. What you put into the sport is what you get out of it.

Winter Sports

What is so exciting about cold winter days? Winter Sports! Basketball and wrestling put a spark into the winter season.

The girls' varsity basketball team attracted plenty of attention when they proved they can still win in the Hornet style with new coach, Mr. Charles Page. Mr. Page worked on the teaching techniques of playing on both defense and offense.

Veteran varsity player, D.J. Given said, "I thought we adapted really well to Mr. Page. We had our ups and downs, but we played as a team."

Coach Page said that he expected to have a very good team with a very good record. With pride and a smile, Coach Page said he got what he expected. Returning letter-women, Tasha Price, D.J. Given and Kim Cross helped the Lady Hornets basketball team finish the season with a record of 15 wins and 6 losses.

Mr. Page's goals for next season are to go as far as they can in the city, beat Franklin Central in the sectional, and to win the sectional.

The boys' varsity basketball team finished the season with a record of 6 wins and 13 losses.

Coach James Thompson stated that he expected the team to be competitive, to show improvement as the season progressed, and for them to be a 70% free throw shooting team. He had also anticipated for returning lettermen Kenny Smith, John Edmonds, and Fred McGee to be strong this season because all three had significant roles last season.

Like any other team, this basketball team had its strength. Mr. Thompson said that their strength was their youth because he felt that they were going to get better.

Coach Thompson, full of pride, stated that one of the highlights of the season was defeating Terre Haute North which was ranked third in the state. Another was the cancellation of a game because the nine year old leaky roof in the North gym turned the court into a swimming pool.

Mr. Thompson's intentions for next season are to get back in the upper echelon of Marion County basketball and to see Fred McGee, Rodney White, Robert Mann, Thomas Allen, and Andre Smith contribute more to the team since they have gained experience this season.

Freshman basketball coach, Martin Sam said that he expected improvement in basic skills, good character, winning attitude from the classroom to the gym floor from his freshmen team as they finished the season with a record of 6 wins and 11 losses. Mr. Sam quickly added that they had a winning record as men on the court.

Mr. Sam also stated he would not change a thing about his team with the exception of the record. Coach Sam is looking forward to a winning season next year.

The wrestling team for the 1987-88 school year had an exceptional season. The team worked hard and had good senior leadership qualities. The team placed third in city and second in sectional. Alvin Holliday and Matt Williams made it as far as semi-state. Alvin and Matt are the ones to watch for next season, according to Mr. Arvin. The team had a great season due to a good team and lots of interested people. Hopefully, next year will be even better.

Howe's School Spirit

School spirit at Howe is hard to measure. To some, such as Audra West, "There's slightly above average school spirit." To others, like Angel Vie, "We're slowly improving." Still others believe we have no school spirit at all.

One thing is certain, there seems to be more class spirit than school spirit. "Everyone is always trying to prove that one class is better than another," says Stephanie Moore.

"We do have a little school spirit, but that depends on who's winning," say Tracy Kult and Jenny Scott. "nobody wants to see a losing team."

Overall, this year's school spirit started off with a bang, with football season, and left with a whimper by the end of the year.

From the Freshman year to Senior year, ideas, people, and lives grow. Howe has 50 years of prosperity and change established. Life styles and traditions have also undergone transition; however, the idea "Howe done is well done" had and always will echo through the minds of the five decades of students who have attended and graduated from Howe High School.

Students and Faculty Combine Talents to put on a Dickens of a Show

"Bah humbug!" rang through the auditorium in early December as the senior sponsored play, A Christmas Carol, was presented. The famous Charles Dickens tale of Ebenezer Scrooge had a new twist as students, teachers and administrators breathed life into the characters. While the major roles were performed by students, some of the faculty stole scenes in their minor parts.

Guy Booher led the audience through a foggy London as Charles Dickens, the narrator. Billy Johnson portrayed a remarkably nasty Scrooge. Scott Schoen was a sympathetic Bob Cratchit, while Emily, his sharp-tongued wife, was played by Kathy Miley. Evelyn Winslow, Bruce Pickens, Joe Jones and Jamaïne Walker played multiple parts. The ghost of Christmas past was performed by Monica Mertz. Melinda Baker played the ghost of Christmas present, and Dale Kinney was the spectre from the future.

The faculty was represented in this classic tale of Christmas ghosts by Bruce Beck, John Ervin, Patricia Aman, Warren Dressler, Pat Kuhn, Mary Dewitz and Thomas Lewis.

And, as Tiny Tim observed, "God bless them, every one."

Bottom Left: The Ghost of Christmas Past played by Monica Mertz comes to Haunt Scrooge.

"Opportunities Never End"

The O.N.E. theme is not merely a theme. It is so much more. O.N.E. of course focuses on the opportunities here at Howe, but it also is related to our Student Council and all of us as individuals.

This year, I've witnessed so many exciting opportunities for Howe's student Council. When I look back at the past nine months, I'm overwhelmed at what we've accomplished. We've pulled off approximately sixty dynamic projects, many of which had never been tackled before. On top of that, we've highlighted the 50th Anniversary with special events. So many members were new this year — yet look at what we've done. We can be serious at times, yet we know how to have fun, too. We're not just great. We're outstanding. We have seized so many lingering opportunities and made them into exciting successes. We're not just a top Howe Student Council, or even a top student council in the state of Indiana. We're one of the best in the United States.

Student Council, however, is more than just successful projects. It's responding to challenges, fulfilling expectations, listening to ideas. It's believing in others, and more importantly, believing in yourself.

Being yourself and being able to express your feelings is a very admirable strength. It is when we love ourselves that we realize that no goal is too high, no dream is too impossible. Life has endless opportunities just waiting to be grabbed hold of.

A Tradition Continues, New Outlooks Evolve

50 years of traditions and ancestry has added the spark of gold to the life of Howe High School.

The 1987-88 school year ended the first half-century with enjoyable memories and great successes that will last in the memories of the students and faculty for many years to come. It also begins the next 50 years with new ideas and outlooks. This year will undoubtedly go down in history as the year with a touch of gold.

Center left: All of these stickers stand for the accomplishments achieved during a football game! This year's football team strived to meet each goal and did the best in 20 years.

Bottom left: Opportunities Never End was exactly the attitude of this year's staff and students as they took every chance to make the 50th year special.

Top center: One of the main attractions this year was the visit of Mrs. Nancy Reagan. She spoke on how Drug Abuse is a definite problem in our high schools.

1938-1988

The half century since the opening of Howe High School has seen any number of changes. Perhaps the best way to illustrate the changes is through popular culture.

Clark Gable was the heart throb of many females in 1938.

Tom Cruise is the heart throb of many woman today.

Kate Smith was a popular singer in 1938, a "big" talent in every sense of the word.

Slender Whitney Houston is the 1988 counterpart of Kate Smith.

In 1938 teens swooned and fainted over Frank Sinatra's songs.

Michael Jackson's hits keep teens rocking in the 1980's.

W.C. Fields had Grandma and Grandpa rolling in the aisles in 1938.

The raw humor of Eddie Murphy appeals to the generation of today.

The number one female box office draw in 1938 was Shirley Temple.

Oscar winner Cher is a top draw at the box office in 1988.

Top movie of the year in 1938 was Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

The number one movie in 1988 was Disney's "Who Framed Roger Rabbit."

Hilltopper

Cheerful, confident and lots of charisma describes the staff of '88'. The "team" had no problem getting along with each other, nor did they have a problem knowing that they were making a book of memories for Howe students. A lot of ideas flowed through each staff member's brain for the 50th anniversary yearbook celebration. Thus came the title, A Touch of Gold. After the other ideas were written down, the work began on the yearbook that should be the most cherished to many students and faculty members.

When you look over this yearbook, remember you're going to the school with the golden Hornet touch.

Crystal Campbell

The Hilltopper is in a state of transition. Although the 1988 book did not get out on time, a virtually new staff and advisor have picked up the pieces of this giant puzzle, and what you see is the result.

Without dwelling on the problems of the past, the new team has met an enormous and overwhelming challenge. Great satisfaction was felt by all as page after page was completed and shipped out.

Everything was new and exciting for the staff as we started to learn the problems, the terminology, and the pride of piecing together a yearbook at breakneck speed.

We were thrilled that almost everyone at Howe helped us when we asked them to. To the coaches, the club sponsors, the office workers, the teachers, and the students that we pestered unmercifully, we say thanks.

And for any problems or errors in the book, it was probably those other guys . . .
